DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to applicant's response filed on 08/27/2007. Claims 19-26 are now pending in the present application. This action is made final.

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement (IDS) submitted on 10/10/2007 is in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statement is being considered by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

3. Claims 19, 21, and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(a) as being anticipated by Hofschien et al. (WO 99/00962 – English translation).

Regarding claim 19, Hofschien et al. discloses a portable telephone set (figure 1) comprising: talking portion (microphone and speakers); music replay portion (SPM), for superposing a talking voice of telephone communication on replayed portion when making the telephone communication through the talking portion during the music replay by the music replay portion; and volume control portion for controlling the volume of the replayed music and the volume of the talking voice of the telephone communication; and the volume control portion includes a talking volume adjusting part, a music volume adjusting part and a control part controlling the talking volume adjusting part and the music volume adjusting part (the combined mobile phone with an audio unit (figure 2) comprising volume control portion (LSR) which can inherently control the volume of the replayed music and the volume of the telephone communication, see page 12, lines 15-21) (see abstract; and page 7, line 16 – page 10, line 5).

Regarding claim 21, Hofschien et al. disclose the portable telephone set capable of arbitrarily setting the volume of the talking voice of the telephone communication and the volume of the replayed music in the process of the music replay (page 9, lines 1-12; and page 10, lines 1-5).

Regarding claim 26, Hofschien et al. disclose wherein the volume control portion reduces the volume of the replayed music when superposing the talking voice of the telephone communication on the replayed music in the process of music replay (page 9, line 1-12; and page 10, lines 1-5).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 20 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hofschien et al. in view of Chin (US 5,661,788).

Regarding claim 20, Hofschien et al. disclose the portable telephone set according to claim 19. Hofschien do not disclose telephone number storage portion storing telephone numbers, and superposing the talking voice of the telephone communication on the replayed music in the process of the music replay by the music replay portion when making the telephone communication with the telephone numbers stored in the telephone number storage portion. However, Chin (figure 1) discloses telephone number storage portion storing telephone numbers (figure 1, item 112) for selectively alerting the user of preferred telephone calls (see abstract, column 2, line 45 – column 3, line 3). Therefore, it would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to adapt the telephone number storage portion and the teaching of Chin to the portable telephone set of Hofschien et al. in such a way the portable telephone set superposing the talking voice of the telephone communication on the replayed music in the process of the music replay by the music replay portion when making the telephone communication with the telephone numbers stored in the telephone number storage portion so that the user can be selectively alerted of the preferred incoming telephone calls as suggested by Chin (column 1, lines 50-53).

Regarding claim 22, Hofschien et al. and Chin disclose the portable telephone set of claim 20 above; in addition, Hofschien et al. disclose the portable telephone set capable of arbitrarily setting the volume of the talking voice of the telephone communication and the volume of the replayed music in the process of the music replay in correspondence to the telephone number stored in the telephone number storage portion (page 9, lines 1-12; and page 10, lines 1-5).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments filed 08/27/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claim 19, Applicant argues that Hofschien fails to teach "the volume control portion includes a talking volume adjusting part, a music volume adjusting part and a control part controlling the talking volume adjusting part and the music volume adjusting part". The examiner, however, does not agree with the Applicant. Applicant's attention is directed to Hofschien (figure 2; and page 12, lines 15-21) which clearly disclose a volume control portion (LSR) , the volume control portion inherently includes a talking volume adjusting part, a music volume adjusting part and a control part controlling the talking volume adjusting part and the music volume adjusting part in order to adjust the volume of the telephone or music replay portion of the combined mobile phone and audio unit of Hofschien. Since claim 19 does not recite the talking volume adjusting part, the music volume adjusting part and the control part being separated and distinct from each other, the LSR of Hofschien reads on the claimed limitation.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
